

STORSTAD ARRIVES
AT MONTREAL, CAN.Collier Shows Collision Effects.

DEPUTY SEIZES SHIP

Captain Andersen Denies Responsibility for Sinking Empress of Ireland.

Montreal, June 1.—With her bows crumpled in and twisted around at an acute angle to port and a gap showing on the port side only a foot or so above the water line, in mute evidence of the tragedy in which she figured, the Norwegian collier Storstad limped into the harbor.

A few minutes later a warrant of arrest, taken out by the Canadian Pacific railway, was nailed to her mainmast by order of W. Simpson Walker, K. C., registrar of the Quebec admiralty.

"By what authority do you come on board my vessel and place it under arrest?" asked Captain Andersen, commander of the collier.

"By authority of the British empire," curtly replied the deputy sheriff who was commanded to execute the warrant and who forthwith proceeded to affix the warrant in the customary place.

Claims $2,000,000 for Loss.

The seizure of the Storstad was at the instance of the Canadian Pacific railway company, whose claim against the owners of the collier, the Maritime Steamship company of Norway, is for $2,000,000 loss.

Captain Andersen, immediately the collier docked, was in conference with Captain Ove Lang, American chief of the Maritime Steamship company of Norway, and John J. Griffin, attorney for the company, both of whom had come on from New York to get the captain and sailors first hand and to look into the situation.

According to Captain Andersen the Storstad did not back away after the collision. On the contrary, she steamed ahead in an effort to keep her bow in the hole she had dug into the side of the Empress.

The Empress, however, according to the Storstad's officers, headed away and bent the Storstad's bow over at an acute angle to port. After that the Empress was hidden from the view of the Storstad and, despite the fact that she could not locate the Empress until the cries of some of the victims in the water were heard.

Denies Moving After Shock.

Captain Andersen absolutely denied that he moved a mile or so away from the Empress after his vessel struck the liner. The Storstad had not moved, it was the Empress which had changed position, he declared.

According to the report made by Captain Andersen to the owners immediately the collision occurred he heard Captain Kendall shout, calling on him not to pull away.

"I won't," shouted the Storstad's captain, as loud as he could. After that the Empress disappeared from the Storstad's view.

The statement issued by Lang and Griffin is as follows:

"The vessels sighted each other when far apart. The Empress of Ireland was seen off the port bow of the Storstad. The Empress of Ireland's green or starboard light was visible to those on the Storstad. Under these circumstances the rules of navigation gave the Storstad the right of way. The heading of the Empress was then changed in such a manner as to put the vessel in a position to pass safely. Shortly after a fog enveloped first the Empress and then the Storstad.

Storstad's Engines Stopped.

"Fog signals were exchanged, the Storstad's engines at once were slowed and then stopped. Her heading remained unaltered. Whistles from the Empress were heard on the Storstad's port bow and were answered. The Empress of Ireland was then seen through the fog close at hand on the port bow of the Storstad. She was showing her green light and was making considerable headway.

"The engines of the Storstad at once were reversed at full speed and her headway was nearly checked when the vessels came together.

"It has been said that the Storstad should not have backed out of the hole made by the collision. She did not do so. As the vessel came together the Storstad's engines were ordered ahead for the purpose of holding her bow against the sides of the Empress and thus preventing the entrance of water into the vessel.

"The headway of the Empress, however, swung the Storstad around in such a way as to twist the Storstad's bow out of the hole and to bend the bow itself over to port.

Empress Disappears in Fog.

"The Empress at once disappeared in the fog. The Storstad sounded her whistle repeatedly in an effort to locate the Empress of Ireland, but could obtain no indication of her whereabouts until cries were heard.

The Storstad was then maneuvered as close to the Empress as was safe in view of the danger of injury to the persons who were already in the water.

"The Storstad at once lowered every one of her boats and sent them to save the passengers and crew of the Empress, though she herself was in serious danger of sinking. When two boats from the Empress reached the Storstad the Storstad's men also manned these boats and went in them to the rescue. Her own boats made several trips and in all about 350 persons were taken on board and everything that ship's stores contained was used for their comfort."

ROWS OF BODIES LIE ON PIER AT QUEBEC.

Quebec, June 1.—The Canadian government steamer Lady Grey brought from Rimouski 188 bodies recovered from the wreck of the Empress of Ireland. The historical heights overlooking the St. Lawrence were black with spectators as the funeral ship moved slowly up the river and was moored at the new embankment wall in the breakwater. The coffins were carried ashore and the mournful work of identification began without delay.

ROOSEVELT ASSAILS
DEMOCRATIC RULESays Tariff and Trust Questions
Remain Unsolved.

New York, June 1.—Failure of the Wilson administration to handle satisfactorily either the trust or the tariff question was charged by Colonel Roosevelt in a statement he left behind him for publication after his departure for Europe.

"The cost of living has not been reduced. Not the slightest progress has been made in solving the trust question," he said.

And again: "It has been shown that the reduction of the tariff in no shape or way helps toward this solution. The economic conditions are such that small business men, the farmer and the industrial wage worker are all suffering because of these conditions."

Colonel Roosevelt said he would put in his hardest work of the campaign in New York state.

"I believe the time has come to clean house in New York," he declared.

DANCING PARTY
UPSETS MOTOR BOAT.

Philadelphia, June 1.—William McCoy and Morris Fynn of this city were drowned by the overturning of a motor boat in Big Timber creek, near Camden, N. J. Thirteen men and one woman were rescued by fishermen. The accident is said to have been caused by those on the boat crowding to one side while dancing.

TWO YOUNG PEOPLE DROWN

Nine Others in Peril When Launch Strikes Rock.

Appleton, Wis., June 1.—Albert Diener of Appleton and Miss Ella Getchow of Shawano were drowned when the launch in which they were riding struck a hidden rock in the Fox river and was capsized. Nine others were thrown into the water, but were rescued.

Several were unconscious when taken out of the water, but all will recover.

The young people were returning to Appleton from a dance. Several seated at the bow of the craft were hurled headlong on the rocks by the impact.

Though severely injured they were able to cling to the rocks and keep their heads above water until rescued.

FOUR AFTER BRADLEY POST

J. N. Camden to Succeed Late Senator Bradley of Kentucky.

Frankfort, Ky., June 1.—Governor James B. McCreary on June 16 will name Johnson N. Camden of Woodford county United States senator to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator W. O. Bradley. Mr. Camden, it is said, will accept the appointment and also will be a candidate for the short term, which will begin with the November elections and end March 4, 1915, when the regular six-year term of Senator Bradley's successor will begin. Former Governor J. C. W. Beckham, General Bennett H. Young, head of the United Confederate Veterans, and former Congressman David H. Smith, it is said, also will be candidates for both the short and long terms.

FIFTH ATTEMPT AT
SUICIDE SUCCEEDSMiner Resorts to Hanging After Other Means Fail.

Butte, Mont., June 1.—Much determined to die, but possessing so much vitality that five attempts were required before he shuffled off, Nick Klossa, a miner about thirty-five years old, hanged himself to the trestle of a sawmill a few miles from Butte.

Klossa had just been discharged from a Butte hospital, where he was treated for a wound about the heart, self-inflicted. At the hospital he attempted to swallow poison, but was prevented by the nurse. Then he tore the bandages from his wound and threw himself out of bed and against the wall. Another time he tried to hang himself with his suspenders.

In his final effort at self-destruction Klossa's toes barely touched the ground and he had to bend his knees in order to swing clear.

STATE WHITE SLAVE LAW

Wisconsin Vice Commission to Recommend Its Enactment.

Madison, Wis., June 1.—The Wisconsin legislative vice commission will recommend for enactment to the next legislature a law similar to the Mann federal white slave act to provide against transportation of women from county to county or city to city within the state.

Howard Teasdale, chairman of the commission, said he believed such a law would go a long way towards curtailing commercialized vice and the immorality of the state.

"The greatest amount of traffic is within the state," said Mr. Teasdale, "and to make the national act beneficial there must be state enactments to back it up."

POLICE GUARDING HOSPITAL

Black Handers Threaten to Blow Up Chicago Institution.

Chicago, June 1.—Threats to blow up the Columbus Extension hospital caused the police to establish a guard around the institution. Dr. C. Volini, former president of the White Hand society, an organization formed to combat the so-called Black Handers, has received four letters demanding $5,000 on pain of dynamiting the hospital. The hospital is conducted by the missionary Sisters of the Sacred Heart.

OLD EMPLOYEES
SOURCE OF WORRY

Heads of Departments Do Not Know Where to Turn.

REFUSE TO PENSION THEM.

Criticism Always Results When Aged Man, Long In Uncle Sam's Service, Is Thrown Out With No Means of Support—Efforts to Solve Vexing Question Have Proved Fruitless.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, June 1.—[Special.]—The everlasting and unsettled problem of the disposition of superannuated clerks in the government service is a subject of great interest in Washington and frequently agitates congress. This is especially true when any head of a department or bureau dismisses these old employees, for at once there arises a considerable clamor about the injustice of turning aged persons adrift who have been so many years in the government service and have accumulated nothing for the support of their declining years.

A civil service pension list is obnoxious to most members of congress, and, although it has warm supporters, there has never been any legislation on the subject. It has been suggested that a certain portion of the pay of each employee should be deducted and a fund created for the support of the superannuated. While this is popular with the older employees, it is bitterly contested by the younger, for they do not think that they should be taxed in order to support others.

There has been more discussion on this subject in the last few years on account of the efforts that have been made to increase the efficiency of the departments and especially after so much time and money were spent by the Taft economy commission to improve the government service.

Civil Pensions Bitterly Contested.

No subject arouses more bitter opposition than any measure which proposes a civil pension list. Generally in these discussions the entire subject of the retirement of officers of the army and navy and of judges of the courts is attacked, and there is a great deal of criticism of the retired lists which have been created heretofore.

Sometimes the bureau have made good records for efficiency by weeding out the old and superannuated employees. This has been accomplished without their discharge by shifting them to other bureaus. A head of a bureau, anxious to make his service markedly efficient, will oftentimes be able to shift an inefficient employee upon some bureau officer who is more compliant, with the result that some bureaus become the haven of "dead wood," so called, and thereby incur a demand for a general reorganization.

Nothing Is Ever Done.

There are few heads of departments who will cast adrift any of the old men and women who have been long in the government service and have no means of support. I have heard a number of cabinet officers say that they will not be responsible for casting adrift these derelicts until congress determines by legislation. Congress will not take that action, and up to the present time congress has not provided a pension list for these old employees.

Consequently the discussion goes around in circles, and nothing is ever done. But it causes a considerable commotion when some of these employees are dropped from the rolls and their friends make an effort to secure their reinstatement.

Does Not Disturb Barrett.

John Barrett, director of the Pan-American bureau, has long ago decided to take with complacency anything that comes his way. A man that is in the public eye as much as he, and takes such a prominent part in so many affairs of importance, particularly in relation to the southern republics, is sure to have something flung his way once in awhile. More as a joke than as a criticism, Congressman Madden of Illinois took a shot at Barrett during a discussion of Pan-American affairs in the house. He told a story about a man who established a bank in Denver years ago in which nearly everybody deposited his funds. After awhile the bank failed, and the banker called a meeting of the depositors and made a speech in the course of which he said that he had nothing but himself to offer and they could do with him as they pleased. One man in the audience stepped up and said, "When you are cutting him up I want to speak for his gail."

Marshall Was Amused.

There was a wrangle over the rules of the senate, something that frequently happens, and Senator Poinsett of Washington took the floor and looking up, saw that the vice president was smiling broadly. "The chair seems to be amused about something," remarked Poinsett rather tartly.

"The chair will be pleased to hear the senator from Washington," said Mr. Marshall. "The chair was simply amused at the debate which has been going on when the question was not debatable and was not amused at the senator from Washington."

This mollified Senator Poinsett, and he continued the discussion and was joined by other senators for a half hour or more.

Sounds Like It.

UPHOLD COMMISSION FORM

Ramsey County Judges Sustain St. Paul's Charter.

St. Paul, June 1.—Commission government in St. Paul is constitutional. New city officers took their places today.

This is the purport and effect of a decision given from the bench by Presiding Judge Brill in the case brought by Mrs. Clara E. Hardenbrook and a number of intervening business men to test the validity of the new commission charter.

After a few minutes of whispered consultation at the close of the hearing Presiding Judge Brill announced the decision. He said that a majority of the judges had decided that demurrer should be sustained upon its merits. Unanimously the judges had decided that the proceeding was an improper one. The application for a temporary restraining order therefore was denied.

DAWSON'S CONDITION GRAVE

Racer's Injuries Will Not Be Known for Several Days.

Indianapolis, June 1.—Of the six men injured in the 500-mile automobile race, which was won by Rene Thomas, a Frenchman, Joe Dawson alone remains in the hospital. Although it was said he was doing as well as the physicians expected it also was said the extent of his injuries probably would not be known for several days.

The physicians admit his condition is serious.

ELEVEN COAL MINERS KILLED BY EXPLOSION.

Leeds, Eng., June 1.—Eleven coal miners were killed and a number of others injured by an explosion of gas in the Silkstone colliery at Wharfedale. The accident happened between shifts, or the casualties would have been much more numerous.

AIRMAN KILLED IN DENVER

Strap Presumably Breaks When He Attempts Leap.

Denver, June 1.—Harry Corbett, an aeronaut, plunged 2,000 feet to death while attempting a balloon ascension and parachute drop at Elitch's Garden, a local amusement park. Several hundred people witnessed the fall.

Corbett fell, it is believed, when a strap fastened about his wrist and attached to the bar of the parachute, broke when he attempted to leap from the balloon. He came here a few days ago from New York city.

CARRANZA OPENS
MEXICAN PORTSSENATE TO ACT
ON REPEAL BILL

Leaders Expect Vote on Canal
Measure This Week.

MAY ADJOURN ABOUT JULY 20

Opponents and Advocates of Proposed Measure Agree That There is No Need for Prolonging Debate Any Longer—House May Finish Work on Trio of Anti-Trust Bills.

Washington, June 1.—The long awaited vote on the tolls exemption repeal bill will be taken in the senate before Saturday night unless all the plans of leaders fail. Both opponents and those who favor the passage of the measure are agreed that there is no need for prolonging debate beyond the present week and when the few speeches already announced have been delivered action will be demanded on the bill and all the amendments proposed to it.

There is a prospect that the house will finish its trio of anti-trust bills by the end of the week and pave the way for adjournment in July if senate leaders can reach an agreement on the amount of trust legislation they believe the country needs and desires at this time.

The appropriation bills can be passed in senate and house in quick order and practically only the trust program stands in the way of adjournment by July 20, as leaders desire. The senate committee in charge has put in a week's work on anti-trust bills before it and is expected to reach a decision on how much legislation it will recommend to the senate by the middle of the week.

The tolls repeal bill will figure daily in the senate until the vote is taken, but the first test for the senators who favor arbitration of the question of American exemption of coastwise ships from all toll payment will come Wednesday when the foreign relations committee will vote on arbitration resolutions. Even the friends of arbitration do not say that a favorable report from the committee will mean that the arbitration plan will be adopted, but the committee's action is awaited with interest.

House leaders hope to dispose of the anti-trust legislation and send three bills over to the senate by the last of the week. Both majority and minority leaders who insist that there is a likelihood of adjournment of congress by July 15, or at least the latter part of July, favor this program. Among the house leaders there is a decided belief that the senate will act only on the interstate trade commission measures.

WARNS MARINE COMPANIES

Rebel Commander Insists That Vessels Plying to Tampico, Tuxpan and Matamoras Must Continue Arrangements for Service Made With the Madero Government.

Durango, Mex., June 1.—General Carranza issued a note declaring Tampico, Tuxpan and Matamoras officially opened to the commerce of the world. He also gave notice to the steamships plying to these ports that they must continue the arrangements for service made with the Madero government or contracts and concessions granted them would be declared void.

The object of Carranza's order was to prevent the steamship companies from abandoning regular sailings to these ports now that they are in Constitutional control.

Announcement of General Carranza's cabinet and declaration of principles, which will be made soon at Saltillo, is awaited eagerly. The personnel of the cabinet is guarded closely. Deep consideration is being given the selection of the men who would bind closer ties of the Constitutionalist forces.

The Constitutionalist commander in chief is understood to believe that the operations against Huerta are approaching completion. The announcement, it is believed, will give foreign interests a point on which to hang future operations.

Carranza soon will go to Saltillo to establish a civil government.

His entry into Saltillo will have a sentimental value in his eyes, as in that city a little more than a year ago, as governor of Coahuila, he organized the Constitutionalist government.

Telegraphic communication has been resumed direct to Vera Cruz with Monterey, Torreon and Saltillo from Durango.

General Cadido Aguilar, recently commanding the forces at Tuxpan, has been named governor of the state of Vera Cruz.

REBELS MUST TAKE PART

Otherwise Mexican Problems Will Remain Unsolved.

Washington, June 1.—Officials of the Washington administration, though in communication with American representatives at the peace conference, declined to discuss their attitude as to reception of representatives of Carranza in the mediation negotiations, but it again was declared that this government still is firmly of the mind that no protocol which would outline terms of settlement of the general political affairs of Mexico will be signed until agents of General Carranza have been given an opportunity to participate in the deliberations.

DEPENDS UPON WASHINGTON

Mediators Continue Plans for Two-Party Agreement.

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 1.—Upon the Washington government depends whether the mediators will receive representatives of the Mexican Constitutionalists. The South American envoys, it became known, virtually have resolved to go ahead with their plans for a two-party agreement between the United States and the Huerta government and for the time being to ignore the question of Constitutional representation.

WIND STORM AT MILWAUKEE

Buildings Razed in Suburbs and at State Fair Grounds.

Milwaukee, June 1.—One of the severest wind and electrical storms in the history of the city, resembling a cyclone, struck Milwaukee and western suburbs and blew down a score of buildings in West Allis and Wauwatosa, demolished fences, barns and other buildings on the state fair grounds, crippled and delayed interurban traffic.

The damage may run to $500,000. No lives were lost, but half a dozen persons narrowly escaped death from falling walls.

At the state fair grounds the huge cattle barn, constructed of concrete and steel, was flattened. The large main gate entrance on National avenue, several eating houses and horse barns were leveled.

DIED TO SAVE HIS BROTHER

Places Youth on Overturned Canoe and Tries to Swim.

Chicago, June 1.—Harry Lund was drowned, giving up his life and leaving a widow and orphan, to save his younger brother Arthur. The canoe in which they were riding on the lake was overturned and the older man helped his brother to the overturned boat, in order not to add to its burden, started to swim ashore. Arthur was rescued, but Harry sank in the cold water within a few yards of safety.

ARCHIBALD PARK FORMALLY OPENED

Congressman C. A. Lindbergh Delivers Address at Ceremonies Sunday Afternoon

COL. C. D. JOHNSON SPOKE

Robert Archibald Presided—Solos Sung by S. F. Alderman and G. S. Swanson

Deerwood, Minn., May 31—Congressman C. A. Lindbergh, of Little Falls, of the sixth district, spoke at the formal opening of Archibald park in Deerwood. A large crowd was present at the ceremonies. Knapp's orchestra furnished the music. Former Senator S. F. Alderman, of Brainerd, sang a solo. Senator Chas. D. Johnson of Brainerd, delivered an address. County Attorney G. S. Swanson of Brainerd, sang. Robert Archibald officiated as chairman.

Congressman Lindbergh said in part: "We cannot go at top notch speed all of the time in any part of life's work. When we run fast and have a long way to go we must slack at times in order to rest and recover our efficiency. It is when we stop that we adjust and correct our visions—if we find them faulty. We live in an intense period. It is very commercial—so much so that we are led to believe that we live to do business well, instead of doing business to live well. However, in our thoughtful moments we take the right view of life; in other words, we strive to make it cheerful as well as useful. And therefore we surround ourselves with the things that appeal to our understanding of what is suited to health, beauty and fitness.

"Upon the opening up of a new park it is fitting to reflect on a community of interest and to review our relations with each other and with the world at large, as well as comparing our own advantages with those of other places. We are interested in good business, applying the word 'business' broadly, as it affects us whether we are engaged in commercial enterprise or simply in being interested from a civic view.

"The consistent growth of a town should be as carefully considered by those who compose it as the individual business of a person is considered by himself. The size of a town is not the test of prosperity, nor does it measure its usefulness to its citizens. Those of a small town who are prosperous, happy and contented, need not strive to secure an increased population.

"This whole district is a natural park, Central Park, New York city and Lincoln Park, Chicago, each cost millions of dollars, but neither furnish the natural attractions and advantages that practically all of this northern part of our state furnish. We have reviewed the local advantages which are practically within your own control and the rest of the world cannot take them from you."

He dwelt on the part each one played, how much, though a unit, was influenced by the acts of the world at large. There was trouble in Colorado, in Mexico and Little Columbia was seeking to make us pay $25,000,000 damages because it claims Uncle Sam mixed up in its domestic affairs. "We are not pessimists or dreamers" said Mr. Lindbergh. "We as citizens have not forced ourselves into this world power arena. Commercialism has forced us but we, as citizens, are called upon to solve the problems that result from commercialism.

"Commercialism is not simply a local problem plus a foreign problem. It is the all pervading problem everywhere. It has invaded every place on God's green earth where there is anything that is worth having.

"This is no dreamer's world. It is no dream that all but a few of the men and women of the world are forced to toil day in and day out all their lives and get scarcely any of the advantages that God Almighty has created and that the present civilization makes it natural that they should have. That is a grim, stern, sad, reality. Nor is it a dream that a comparatively few individuals who themselves produce nothing of value take all the best fruits from the products of the toilers and live in shameful extravagance. That is no dream but a deplorable fact that is witnessed every hour of every day in every large city. It is no dream that avaricious commerce has created out of men and women instruments of commerce instead of commerce serving solely to build a stronger, happier and more independent humanity. These in substance are the problems that we face. These are our problems and they are multiplying upon one another with wonderful rapidity. We are in the first part of a new epoch that will change the methods in order to make the workers—the producers—the owners and the possessors. These, briefly, are the statements of fact, and you, each as one of the units in a mighty force that is striving to make commerce serve the general welfare instead of allowing it to force us into industrial servitude, have the task before you."

Former Senator S. F. Alderman sang "The Holy City." His rich baritone voice thrilled his auditors. The piano accompaniment was played by his daughter, Mrs. Walter F. Wieland. As an encore he sang, "Dreams," by Tosti.

Senator C. D. Johnson, in his address, paid a tribute to the veterans who had made possible this great land and who by shedding their blood kept together a north and a south. The spirit of patriotism pervaded the whole country. The citizenship of America nowadays looked at issues with wide open eyes and the people did not blindly follow political leaders. They were thinking for themselves.

"It has been found that citizens having free speech, free vote and free religion may still be robbed by special privilege," said Mr. Johnson. And accordingly people were more assiduously spending their time solving (Continued from page 4)

MANY ATTEND THE EXERCISES

Four Nurses Graduated from Northwestern Hospital Training School for Nurses

JUDGE B. F. WRIGHT SPOKE

Rev. W. J. Lowrie Presided at the Program Given.—Hall was Beautifully Decorated

The graduation exercises of the Northwestern Hospital Training School for Nurses were held in Elks hall on Friday evening and were largely attended. The hall was beautifully decorated with the class colors, potted plants and flowers.

The graduating class numbered four, being Miss Hilma Marie Nygren, Miss Edythe Olive Phillips, Miss Anna Lydia Michaelson and Miss Maybelle Alvenia Schelin.

Rev. W. J. Lowrie presided. The program included the entrance march, an invocation by Rev. M. L. Hostager, two vocal solos by Mrs. S. B. Christopher, a piano and violin duet from Beethoven by Mrs. W. A. M. Johnstone and Edwin Harris Bergh, the commencement address by Judge B. F. Wright, vocal solo by Mrs. Christopher, presentation of diplomas by Dr. Joseph Nicholson, piano solo by Miss Jennie Wilson.

Rev. Lowrie, in his address, praised the hospital for the painstaking care and cleanliness shown. Dr. Joseph Nicholson he praised as being a physician of the body and the soul.

Dr. Nicholson, in presenting the diplomas, gave a measure of praise to Miss Hildur T. Palm, the superintendent; to Dr. C. G. Nordin and praised the young graduates for their successful record as students.

Judge B. F. Wright, of the district court, who delivered the commencement address, said in part:

"The matter of the modern hospital with its corps of trained nurses and its machinery for training others, thus enabling them to go forth into the world properly equipped for the noble work that is bound to be at hand, ought to be of interest to us all, and no one should withhold such aid and assistance in the building up and the maintenance of these institutions so beneficial to humanity, as he may be able to give.

"It is a work toward which the best people of the world have directed their efforts. People who have overcome to a greater or less extent those sordid, narrow, selfish ideas and principles of human nature to which mankind is all prone to yield, and have, by cultivation of their better and higher natures, grown to condition where they view the welfare of others as demanding a part of their time and their means. So to an extent at least the work of the hospitals and trained nurses is a work of charity.

Judge Wright referred to the Red Cross and the noble work it is doing. "These nurses who have thus devoted themselves to the work of caring for others in times of need, come from the hospital training schools, and some of the graduates of this hospital will no doubt be found among the number.

"Indeed this demand has been so great and is so great today that schools not connected with hospitals have been founded and have graduated thousands of young ladies to go forth in the world to do such work as they can. But the uniformed nurse, commonly called the trained nurse, has come to be regarded as quite as essential to the welfare of the patient in any serious medical or surgical case as the doctor himself. Not frequently we hear the physician says about a patient: 'Is it now only a question of care. With good nursing he will pull through; without, nothing can save him.'

"No one more fully appreciates the value of good nursing than the attending physician. The value of good nursing is not new, but the present day preparation and training for the work is new, or practically so. Trained nursing, strictly speaking, is today a profession and a very honorable one. The genuine trained nurse requires a high degree of skill and technical education, because great responsibilities for the care of operative wounds, the administration of medicine, or of the procedure in times of emergency, is left in her hands by the doctor.

"She is a graduate of a legally organized training school, carried on in connection with some hospital. These graduates tonight enter that profession. It has been clearly demonstrated that the most efficient training can be had in actual experience along with technical instruction; and thus the real hospital nurse, one who, with a regular course of study, has daily experience in the operating and the sick room, is recognized as belonging to a more advanced class than those who have gained their knowledge without such experience.

"Our own state has recently put upon the statute books a law regulating the practice of nursing. No one is permitted in this state to advertise themselves, or hire out as a trained nurse, who has not received a certificate so to do from an examining board; and among the qualifications for those applying for examination is that they are graduates of some recognized hospital training school.

In New York those not graduates of a hospital training school were not permitted to call themselves nurses, but attendants. And why should not these young ladies who have spent two or three years in hard study and work in preparation for their life work, at some considerable expense to themselves, start out with some advantage over those who have not done so? And I am informed that the course required is no easy one. A fair preliminary education is necessary, just as is required for entrance in the technical schools of our universities. Certificates of good character must be presented, and also of good health; and probably no other profession calls for a greater natural aptitude for the work in order to insure a fair degree of success.

"In an article I read recently on the qualifications of a trained nurse, I found the following: 'A nurse must not only be strong mentally, but morally no less so. She must be patient, persevering, clever, quick, gentle, sympathetic, tactful, warm-hearted, and even-tempered.' And I stopped and thought for some time, wondering if there was a single other quality to be found in the ideal woman. And then as I read on I found 'she must be willing to put her career before everything social, for with the call upon her strength for her profession, she will have little time to give to social affairs.'

"Now to the young ladies of this graduating class I can but say this: 'You have chosen for your life work this profession, the qualifications for which, as viewed by outsiders, require you to be far superior to the average woman.

"You have spent the years of training here in this hospital, and to a certain extent now realize the difficulties and trials incident to the work.

"Yet I doubt if you even now fully realize all the demands upon your strength, your patience, your temper, that will be made upon you when you enter upon private practice.

"It is said that you must be patient. How true that is. You know that all of us, no matter how strong, how robust, how self-reliant, we may be in health, become more or less children when weakened and run down by the suffering of a protracted illness. We are apt to find fault with the very best of care. We want that which we cannot have, and when thwarted in our desires, we become most unreasonable in our treatment of those whose only aim is our own good. Such things will try our patience to the very limit; no doubt at times beyond the limit, and you will do or say things which will be a source of regret to you in the future.

"You would not be human if you did not at times yield to this strain.

Yet remember that this virtue of patience is one of the cardinal virtues of a successful nurse and cultivate it. You will find that cultivation will insure growth, and every successful effort to overlook and pass off some trying incident will make you stronger for the next.

"Of all the other qualifications enumerated for success, I think that of even temper is next to patience. Indeed, these two qualities may overlap. The even-tempered person is usually a patient person, but they are no doubt essential in the work of caring for the sick.

"To lose your patience or temper by word or deed, strike or hurt the sensitive feelings of a patient, the care and nursing of whom you are paid for, is an act of cruelty for which there is no excuse or justification, and the inability to overcome the temptation so to do should bar you from the practice.

"The work of a trained nurse offers opportunities of meeting all classes and conditions of humanity, and to know and appreciate character, that in the outside world would not be met. Opportunities of this sort will come to you, and I hope that you will make the most of them. Strive for the ideals of your profession. It is a noble one. It is full of opportunities to do good in the world, and these opportunities will in time appeal to you more strongly than the compensation you receive.

"The constant concentration of your thought on the saving of life, the comforting of those in distress, the alleviation of pain, will surely develop in you those Christian graces of charity and love, the foundation principle of true Christianity.

"Above all, don't become discouraged. If in your first experiences you anticipated, if it at first seems to you that you were mistaken in thinking yourself fitted for the work, don't give up, but rather renew your determination to succeed. Let every possible shortcoming be but a lesson for the future."

Bert Crocker Sentenced to Indeterminate Term in Penitentiary—Smith Case on Trial

In the district court records this entry was made regarding the Con Allen case, wherein the latter was charged with giving a check on a bank in which he had no funds: "The demurrer to the indictment was withdrawn. The county attorney moved to nolle prosequi this indictment for the reason that the defendant has been confined for six months in the county jail of said county, to-wit, since December 12, 1913, when he was bound over to the grand jury, which was considered sufficient punishment for the offense charged."

Attorney W. H. Crowell was allowed $20 for attorney's fees, being two days at $10 each, for defending the prisoner.

Bert Crocker, charged with grand larceny in the first degree, received an indeterminate sentence to Stillwater.

There was selected the jury today in the criminal case against C. D. W. Smith, of Deerwood.

CROSBY VILLAGE IS DECLARED DRY

Decision of judge W. S. McClenahan Saturday is Not in Favor of License in Town

TO ENTER JUDGEMENT JUNE 18

In Memorandum of Eight Pages Judge McClenahan Goes Deeply Into Details

The case of James P. Gleason vs the Village officers of Crosby, known as the wet and dry contest brought by the wets to have the village declared a license town, was decided in favor of the dries, Judge W. S. McClenahan, of the district court, declaring as a conclusion of law, that a majority of votes cast at the election held in Crosby on March 10, 1914 was not in favor of license and that the contest should be dismissed.

The court decision is dated May 29. Judgment is to be entered after twenty days, or on June 18. In a memorandum of eight pages Judge McClenahan goes deeply into the phases of the contest.

The statement of facts follows: "The case came duly on for trial at a special term of the district court and pursuant to stipulations of counsel, H. A. Brown and A. X. Schafl appearing for the contestant (James P. Gleason) and A. W. Uhl, Frank A. Lindbergh and W. L. Norton for the contestees (Village Officers of Crosby); and the court having duly considered the evidence adduced and the arguments and briefs of counsel, and being advised in the premises, finds, as facts:

"That the village of Crosby, Crow Wing county, Minnesota, was, on and prior to March 10th, 1914, duly organized as a village under Chapter 9, Revised Laws, 1905, and was then a place in which the sale of intoxicating liquors was not forbidden.

"That on the date last above mentioned, the annual village election was duly held in said village, and at said election there was submitted to the electors for their choice, in addition to the names of candidates for the several village offices, the question of licensing the sale of intoxicating liquors, and two general forms of ballots were then and there used by said electors, one containing the names of the candidates for offices and the other covering the license question, and separate ballot boxes were provided for the reception of such ballots, in one of which were deposited the ballots cast for municipal officers and in the other the ballots cast on the license question.

That, after the close of the polls on the day of said election, the judges and clerk counted the votes cast and found the total thereof to be 409 on the license question, of which 209 were for license and 200 against license; they also found, among other results, that the greatest number of ballots cast for any single candidate for office was 407.

That, on March 12th, 1914, the council of said village of Crosby met as a canvassing board and declared the results as they appeared from the returns, made by said judges and clerk, to be in all respects as so returned.

That thereafter the contestant, being qualified so to do, within the time prescribed by law, duly commenced a contest of said election, in so far as the license question was concerned, and said contest was thereafter duly brought to trial in this court.

That, after the commencement of said contest, and before said trial, inspectors were duly appointed under Section 530, General Statutes 1913, who thereafter inspected the ballots cast upon said license question and filed in this court a written report of such inspection, from which it appeared that they found a total of 412 ballots on the license question in the box, and this court now finds that such was the total number of such ballots in said box at that time.

That at said election fifteen votes were cast upon the license question by electors who did not vote for any of the candidates for village offices.

That at said election the total number of electors voting was 422, such total comprising all who voted for candidates and all who voted on the license question.

That at said election 412 votes were cast upon the license question, of which 211 were in favor of license and 200 were against license, and one ballot was void, the latter being contestant's exhibit "R", which was in the following form, namely:

LICENSE BALLOT.

For license ----- X
Against license ----- X
That contestant's exhibits "L", "M" and "P" were intended to be, and were, ballots for license, and contestant's exhibits "N" and "C" were intended to be, and were, ballots against license.

And the court finds, as conclusions of law, that a majority of Crosby on March 10th, 1914, was not in favor of license, and that this contest should be dismissed.

B. C. McNamara Asks for Restraining Order Directed Against Auditor and C. A. Nelson

NELSON FILED AS DR. NELSON

Order to Show Cause Returnable June 1 in the District Court at 10 O'clock in Morning

B. C. McNamara, candidate for coronor, wants his opponent, Dr. C. A. Nelson to strip the prefix from his name as filed for the official ballot at the coming primary election, both being candidates for the office of coronor.

He asks that a restraining order be issued. The order to show cause is returnable June 1 at 10 o'clock in the morning in the district court.

In his petition B. C. McNamara alleges that Dr. Nelson, at the time of the filing of his affidavit and the payment of his fee, wrongfully signed said affidavit and requested the county auditor to insert his name on the official ballot for the primary election as "Dr. C. A. Nelson"; that the said county auditor threatens to print said official ballots and has instructed the printer to insert in said official ballots as one of the candidates for county coronor, in and for said county, the name of the respondent, C. A. Nelson, with the prefix "Dr."

It is further alleged that the prefix "Dr" is not any part of his christian or legal name, that he is not a duly licensed physician and surgeon, but a veterinary surgeon.

The petition further alleges that if the county auditor is allowed to print and publish the ballots to be used at the primary election on June 16 with the name of Nelson prefixed by "Dr" that it will tend to induce the voters of the county to cast their ballots for Nelson believing him to be a duly licensed physician and surgeon.

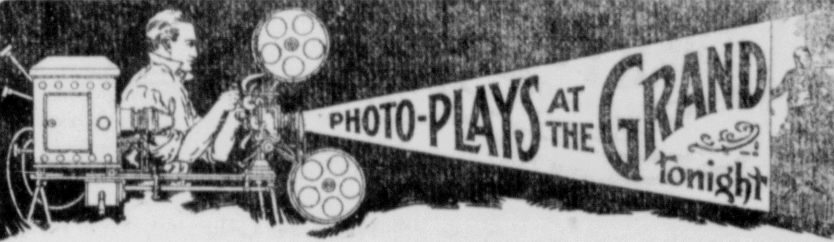

The petitioner prays that the court will issue an order restraining the county auditor from printing the ballots with the prefix and that he be required to print the name as simply "C. A. Nelson."

THY BETTER SELF.
Be true to thy better self. The noblest thing you ever did, the noblest emotion you ever felt, the deepest and most self sacrificing love ever in your soul, that is your true self still through all the baser life into which you may have fallen.—Phillips Brooks.

You can't cover blackheads, pimples, red spots on the face with powder; they're bound to be seen—don't worry or spoil your temper, take Hollister's Rocky Mountain tea each week—it will banish them thru the blood, the only sure way. 35c. H. P. Dunn
